Trace the circles. Encourage that we start from the leaves.

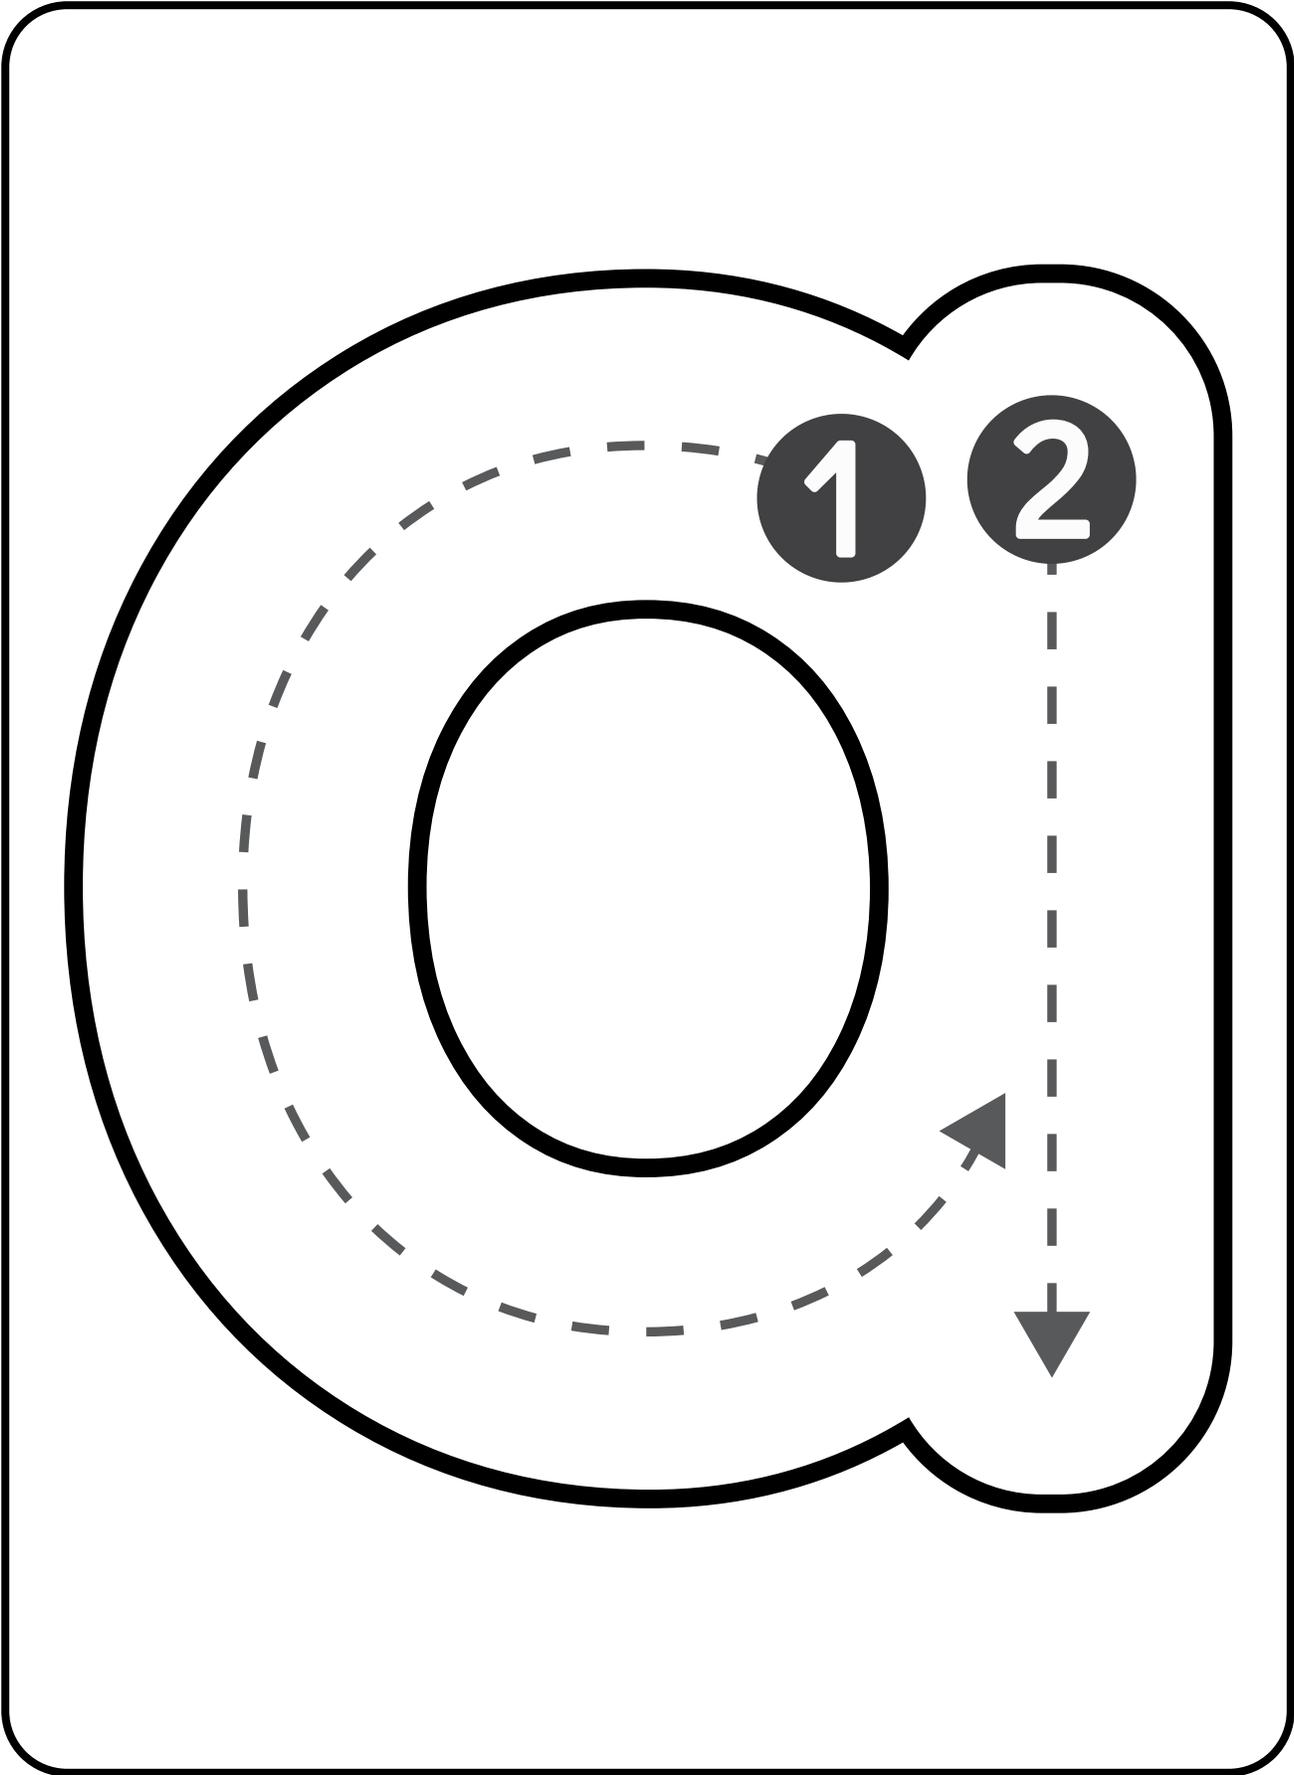

Trace the lines of the apple. Encourage that we start from the top.

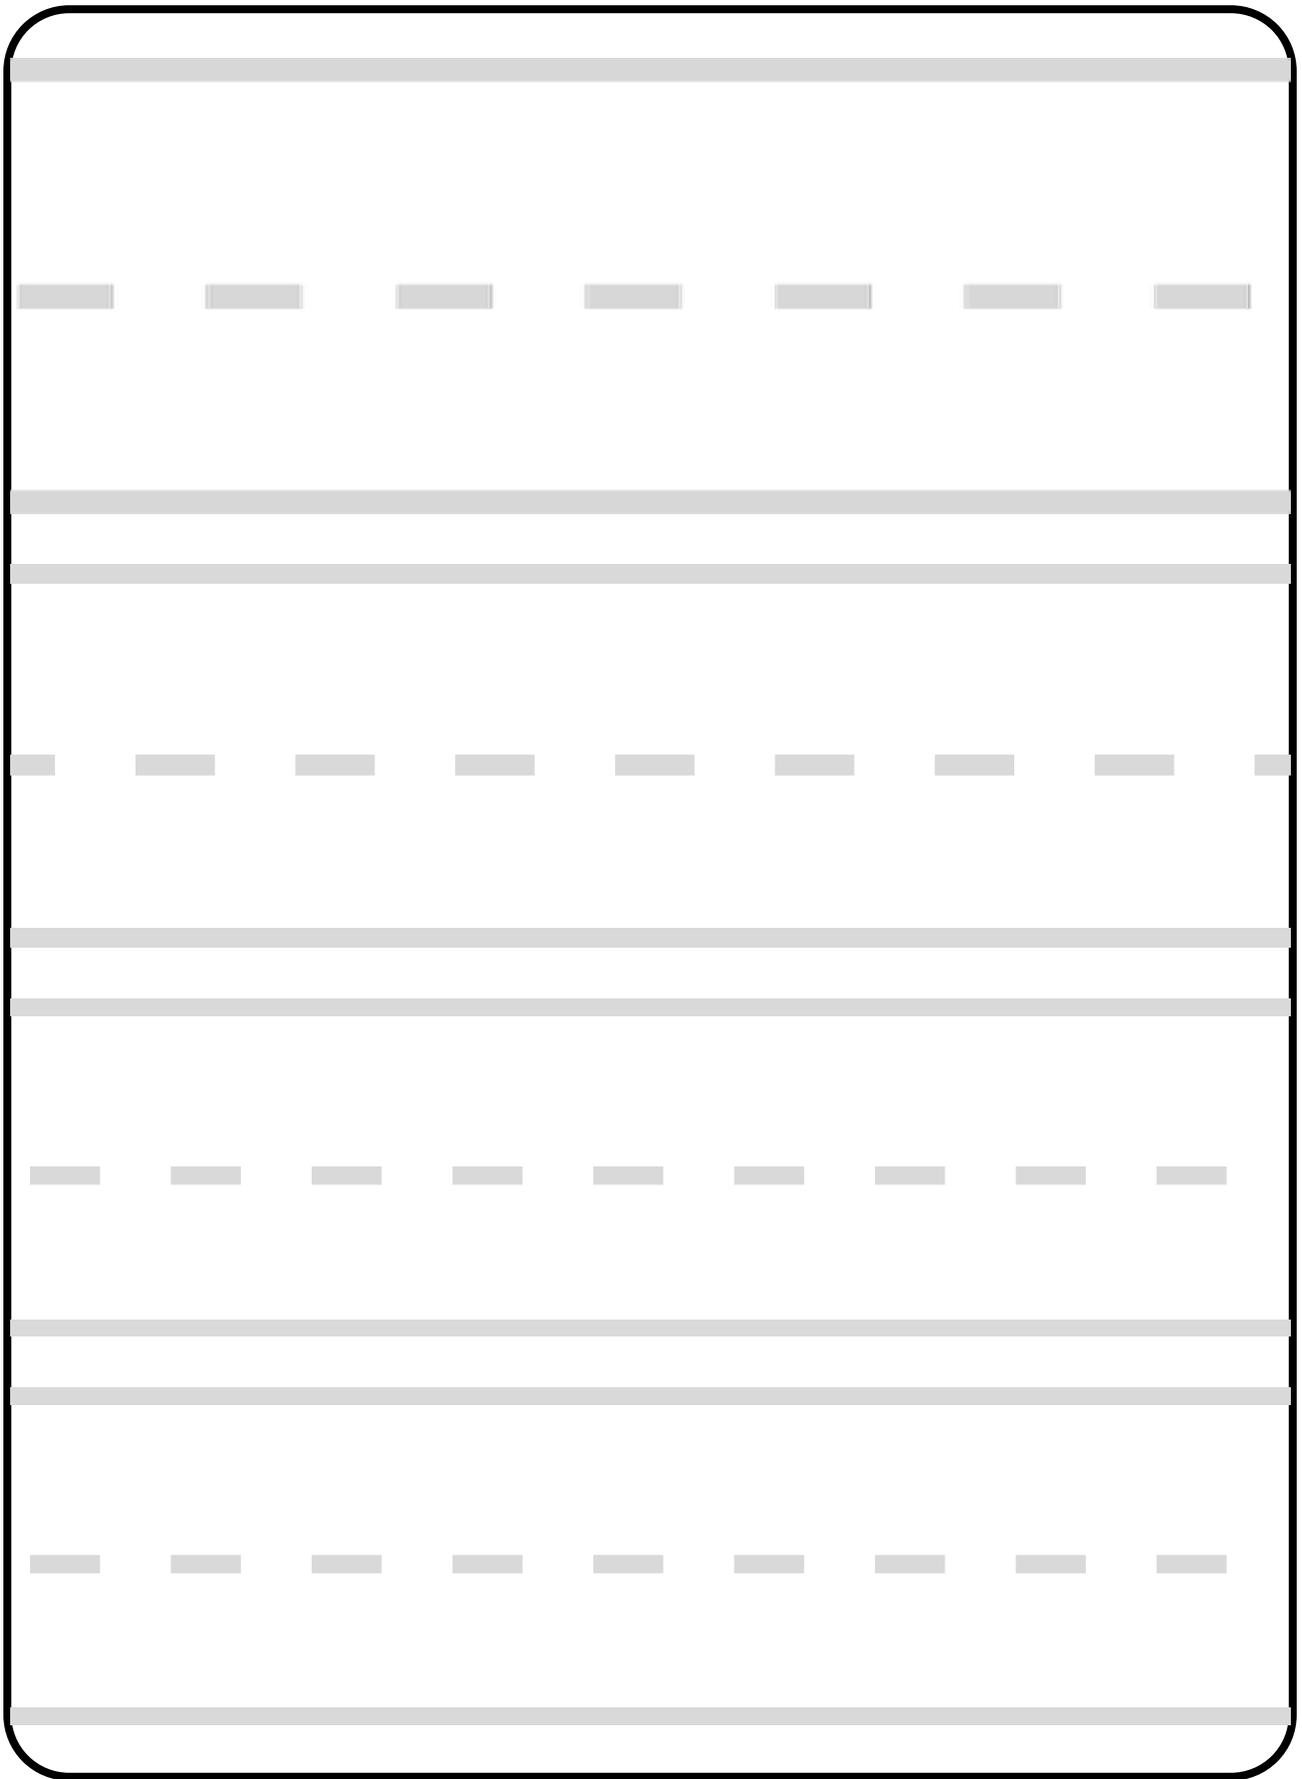

Draw an a around the apples. First do all the circles, then go back and do the lines.

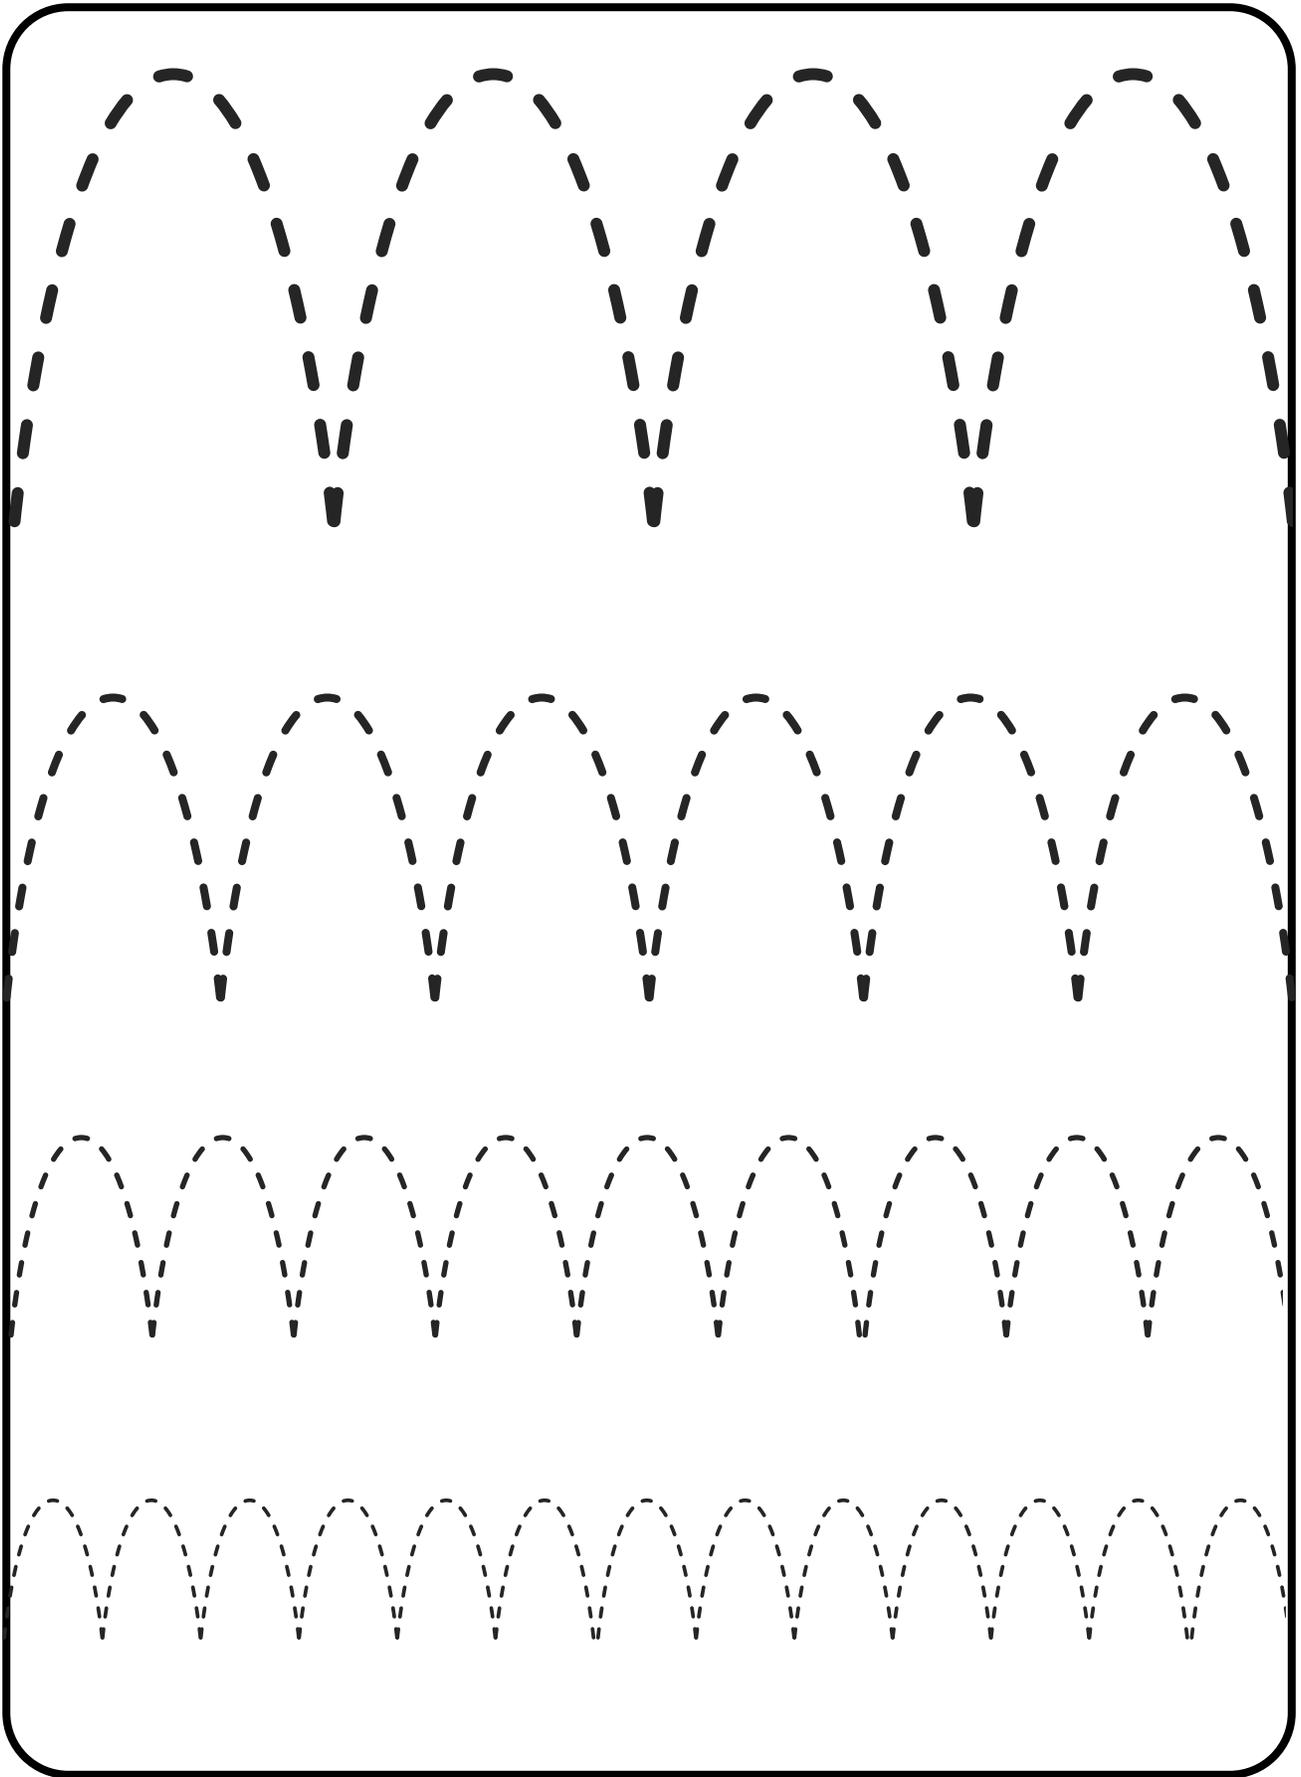

Make a c but do not top. Bump to the bottom!

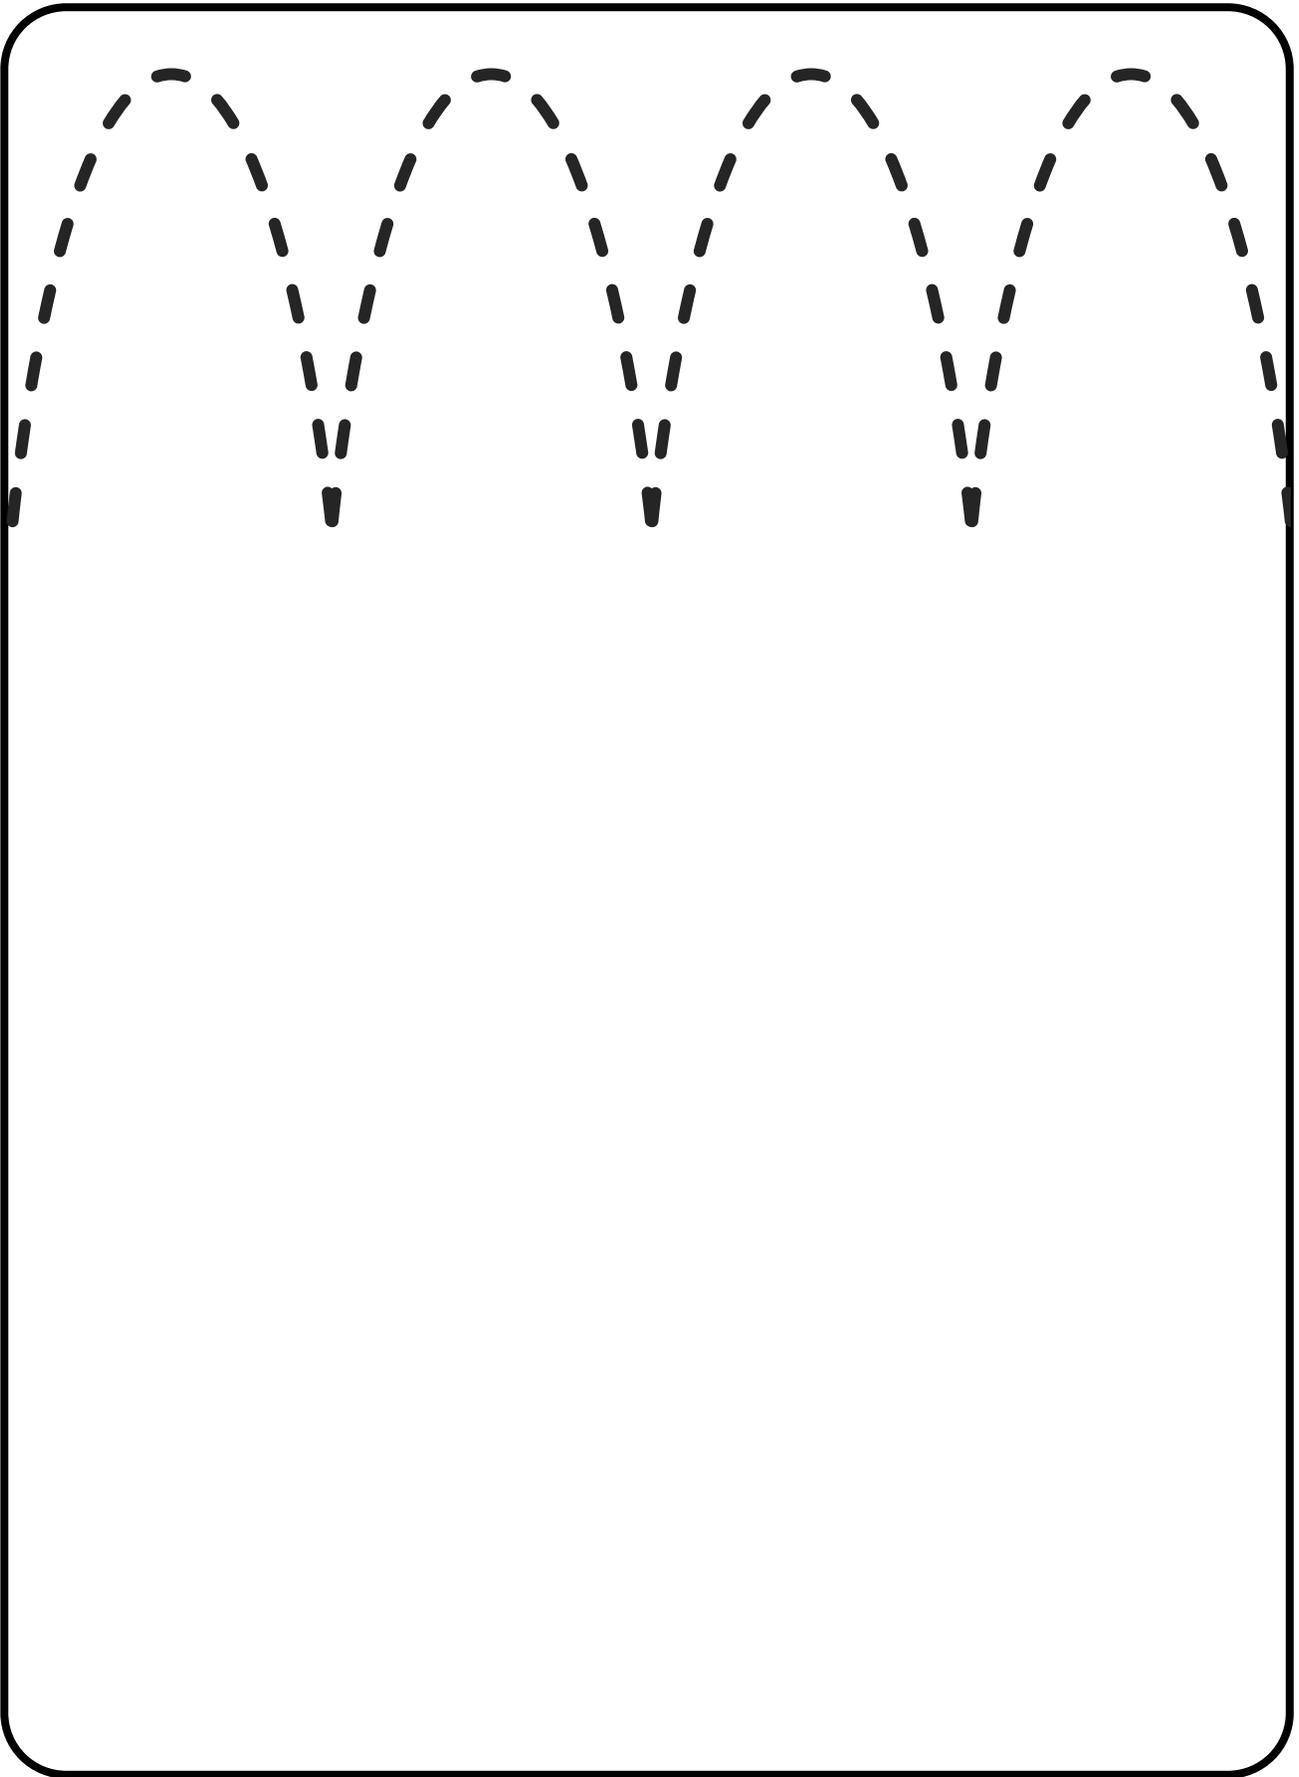

This handwriting practice sheet is enclosed in a rounded rectangular border and features four rows of horizontal lines. Each row is designed to help a child learn to write the lowercase letter 'a'.
- The first row contains three dotted 'a's for tracing. Each 'a' is positioned between a top and bottom line, with a dashed line above it. Small gray rectangular boxes are placed above the top curve and the vertical stem of each letter to indicate stroke order.
- The second row contains four dotted 'a's for tracing, following the same layout as the first row.
- The third row contains five dotted 'a's for tracing, also following the same layout.
- The fourth row consists of ten dashed horizontal lines, providing a space for independent practice of the letter 'a'.

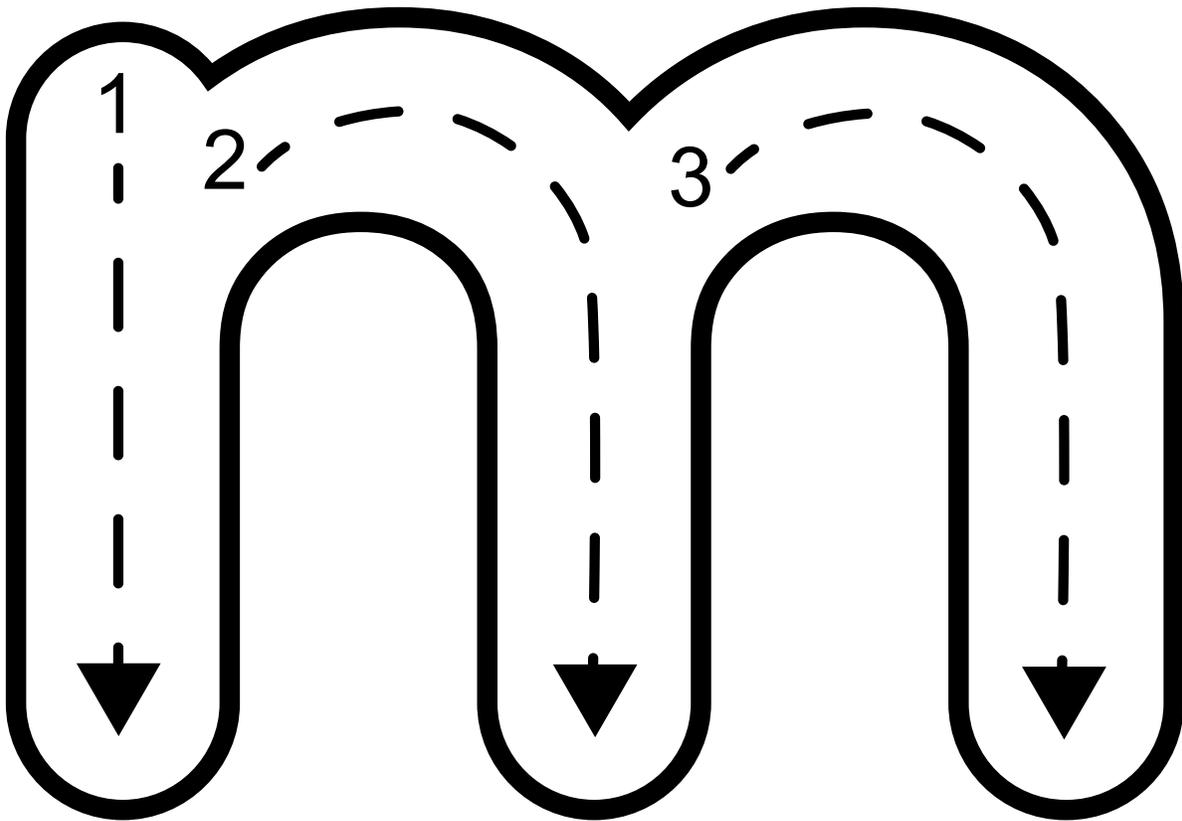

Trace the many mountains!

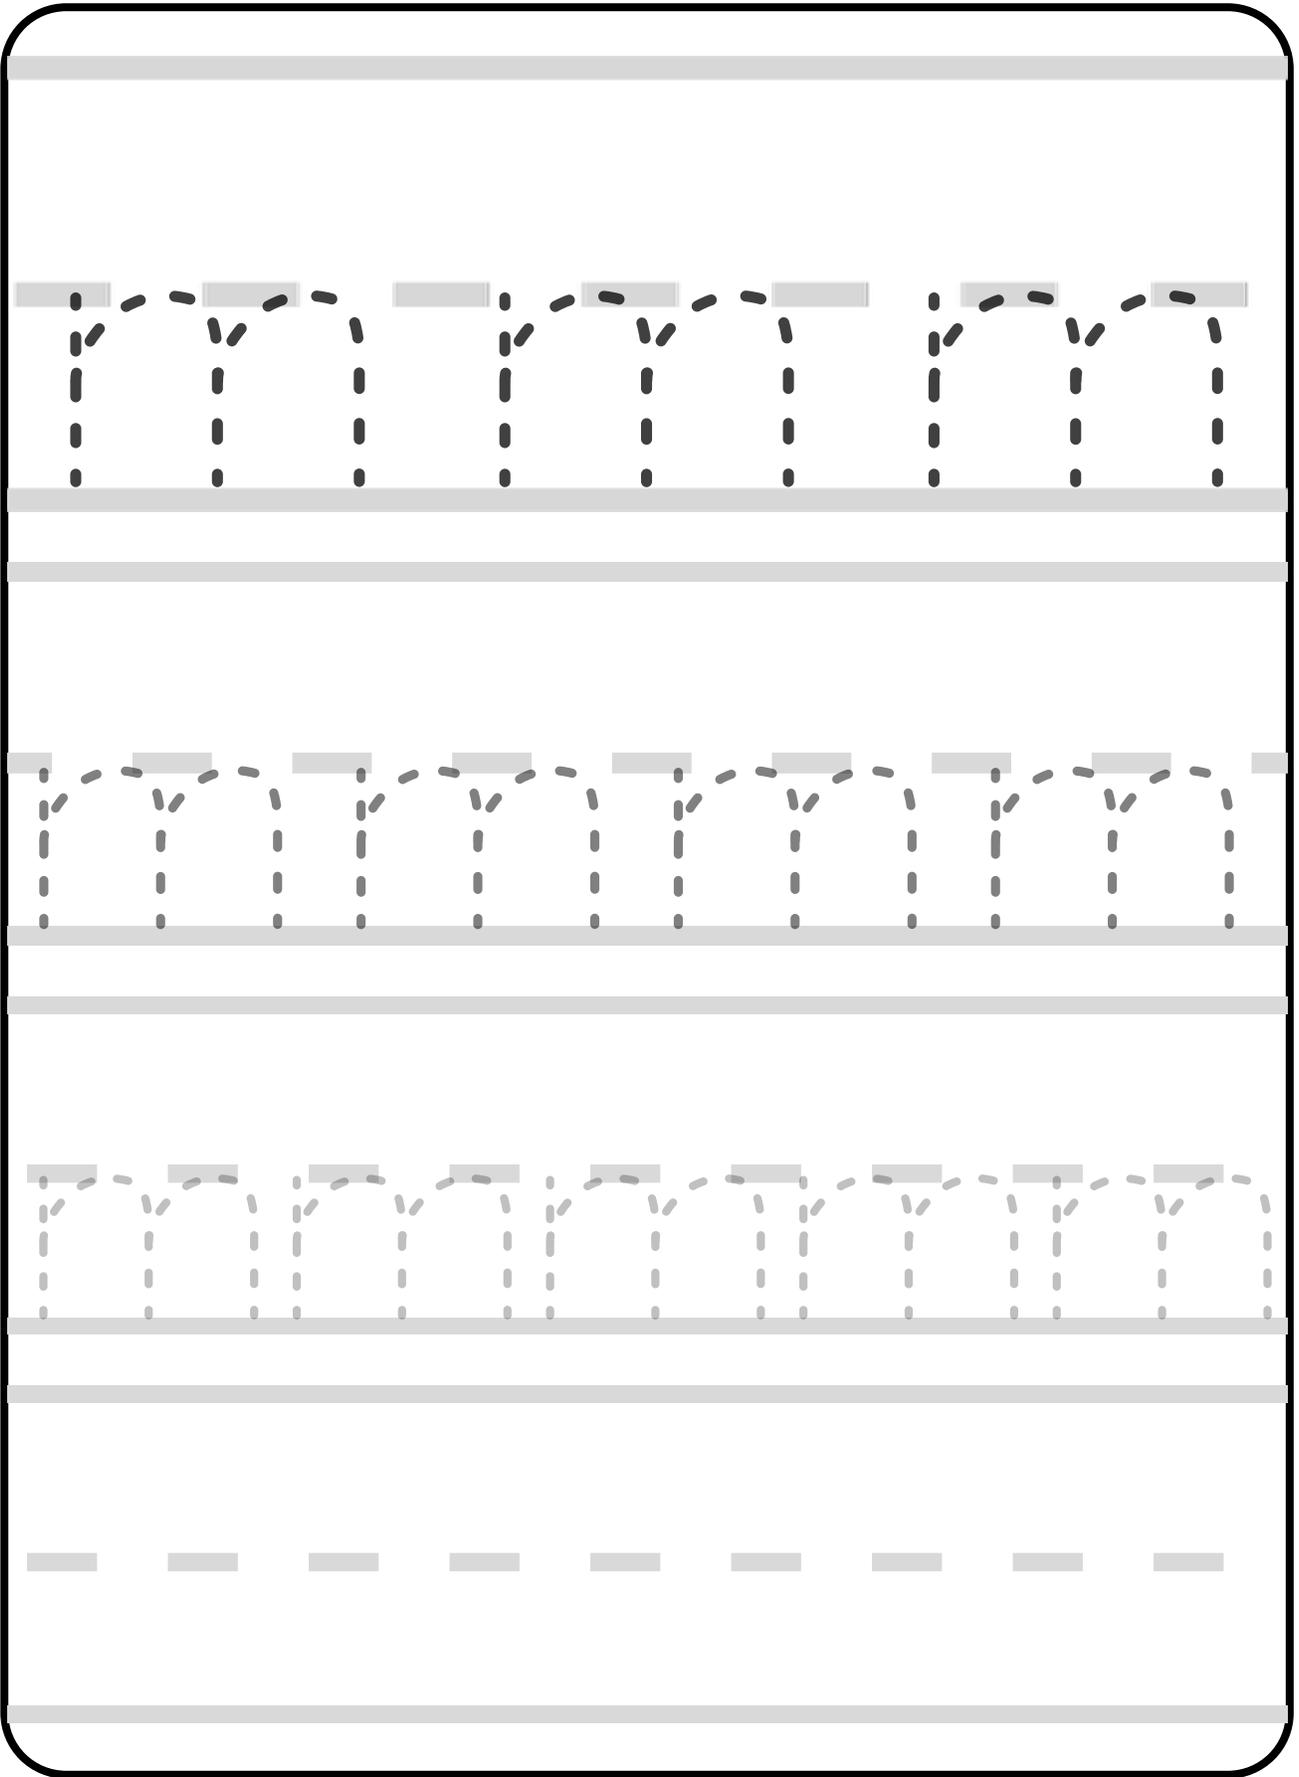

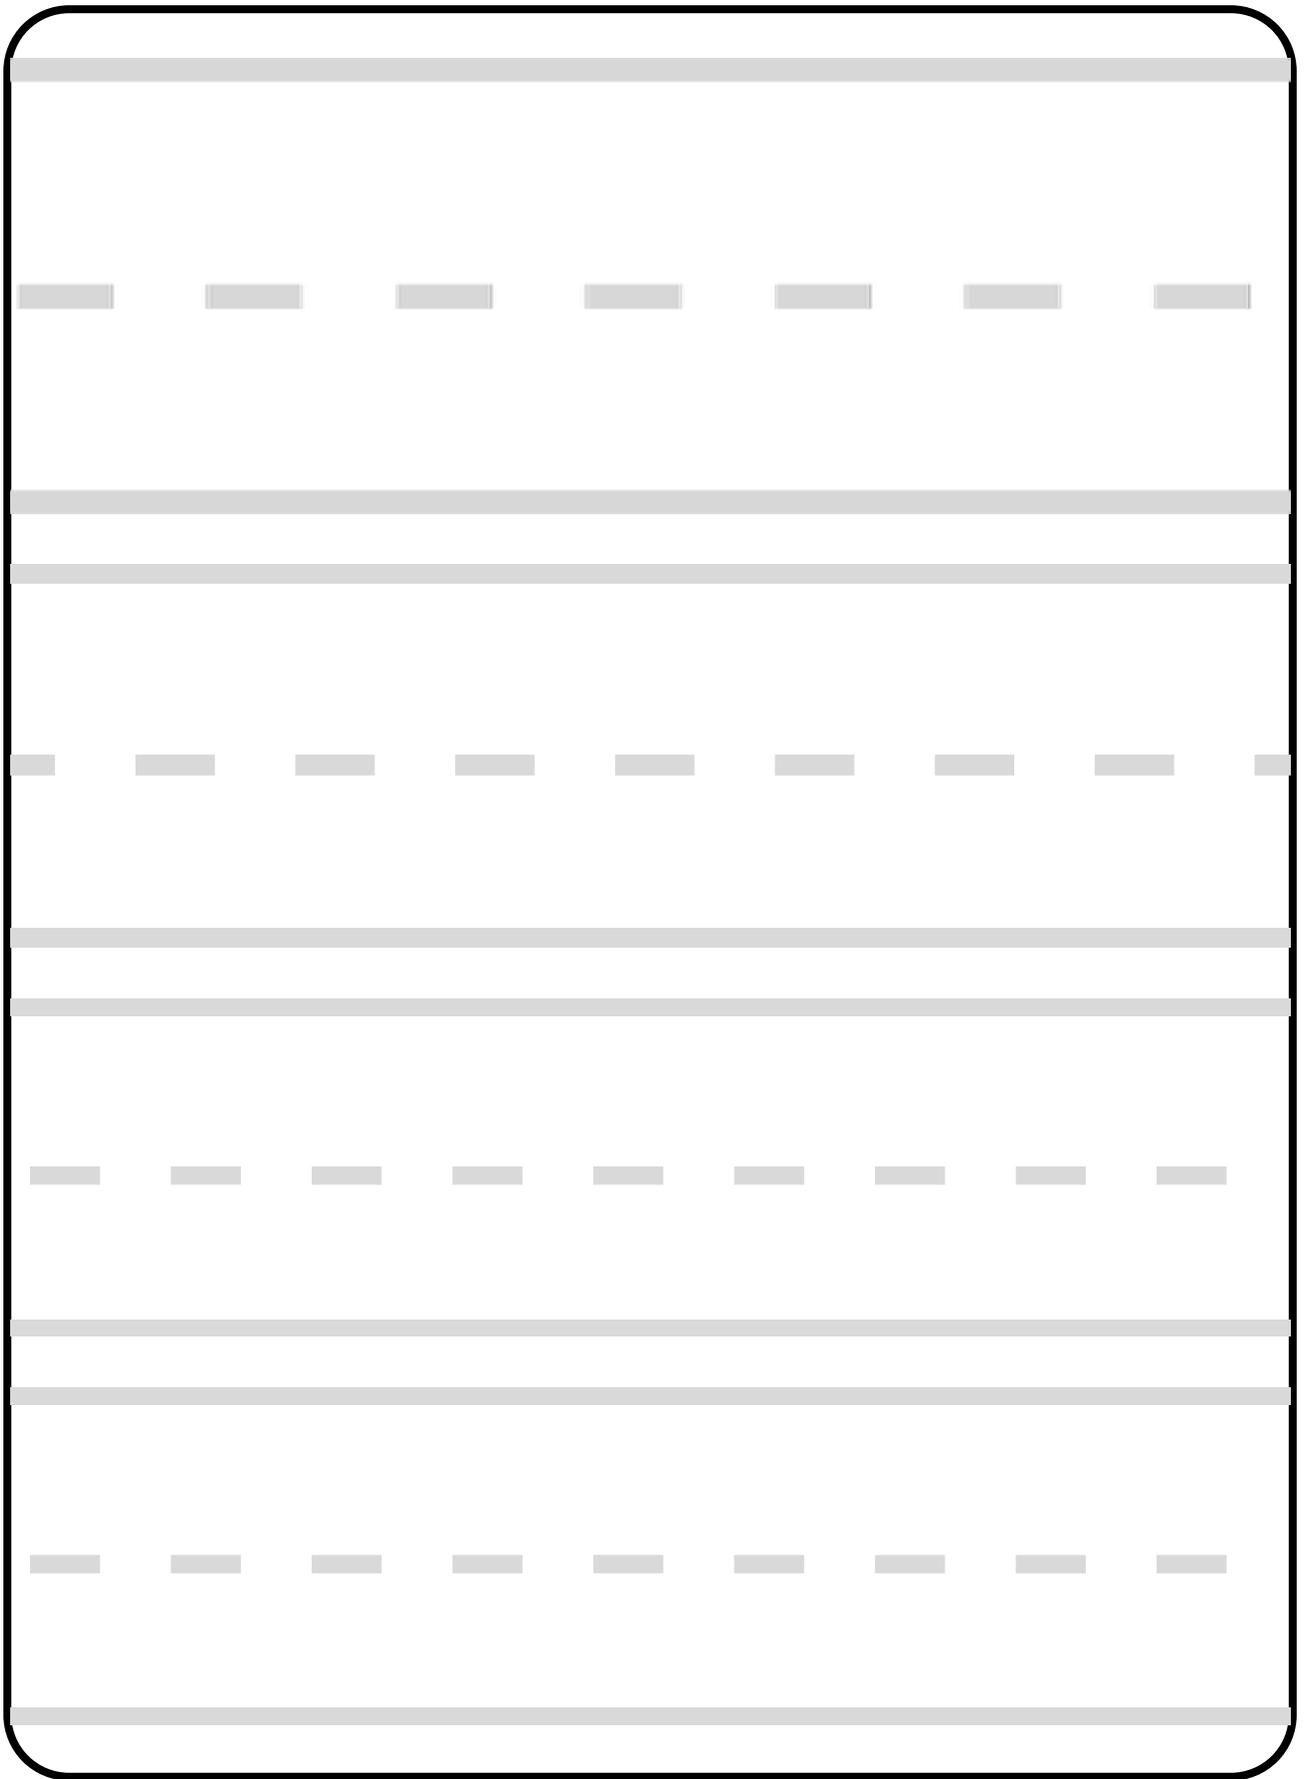

Trace the mountains and draw your own!

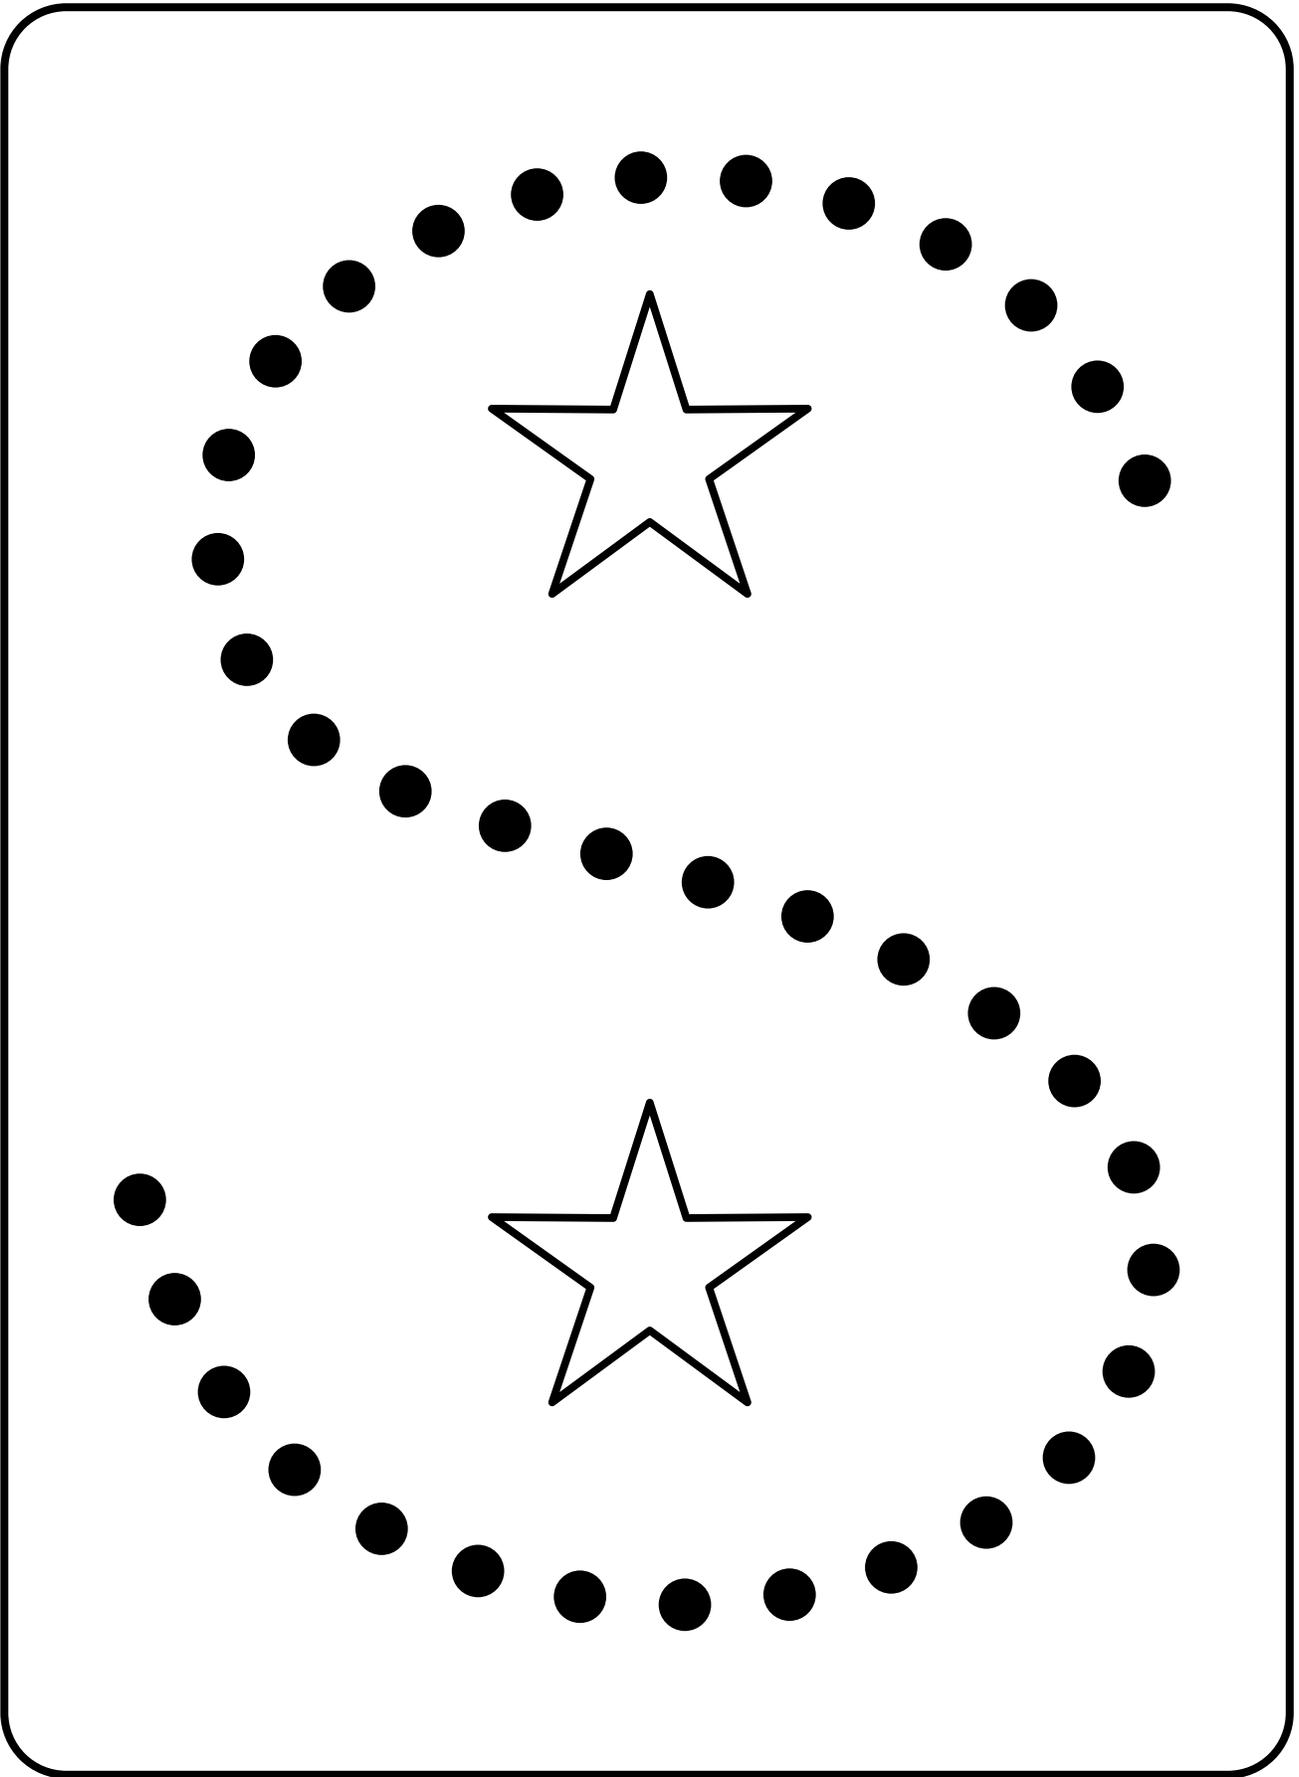

Line down. Hump. Hump.

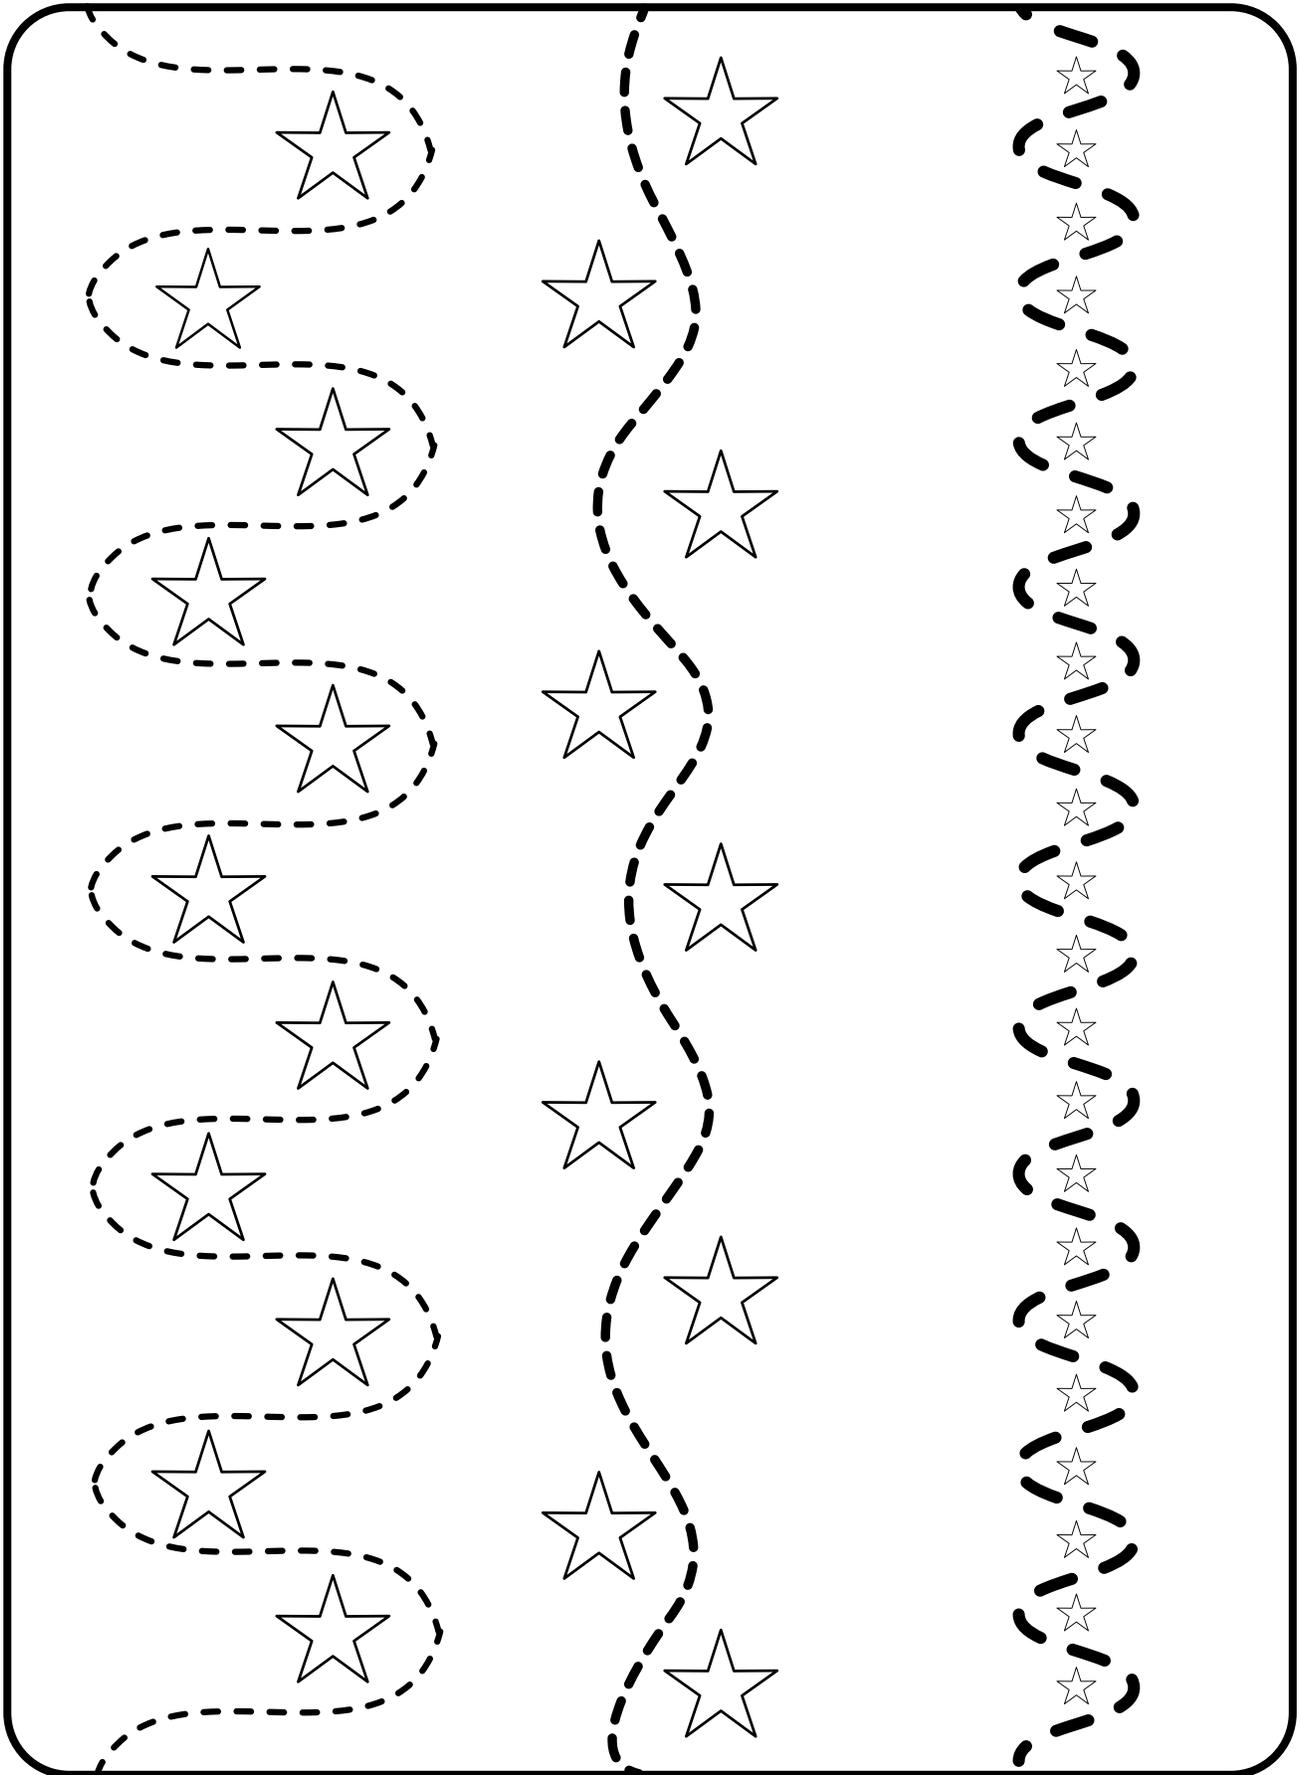

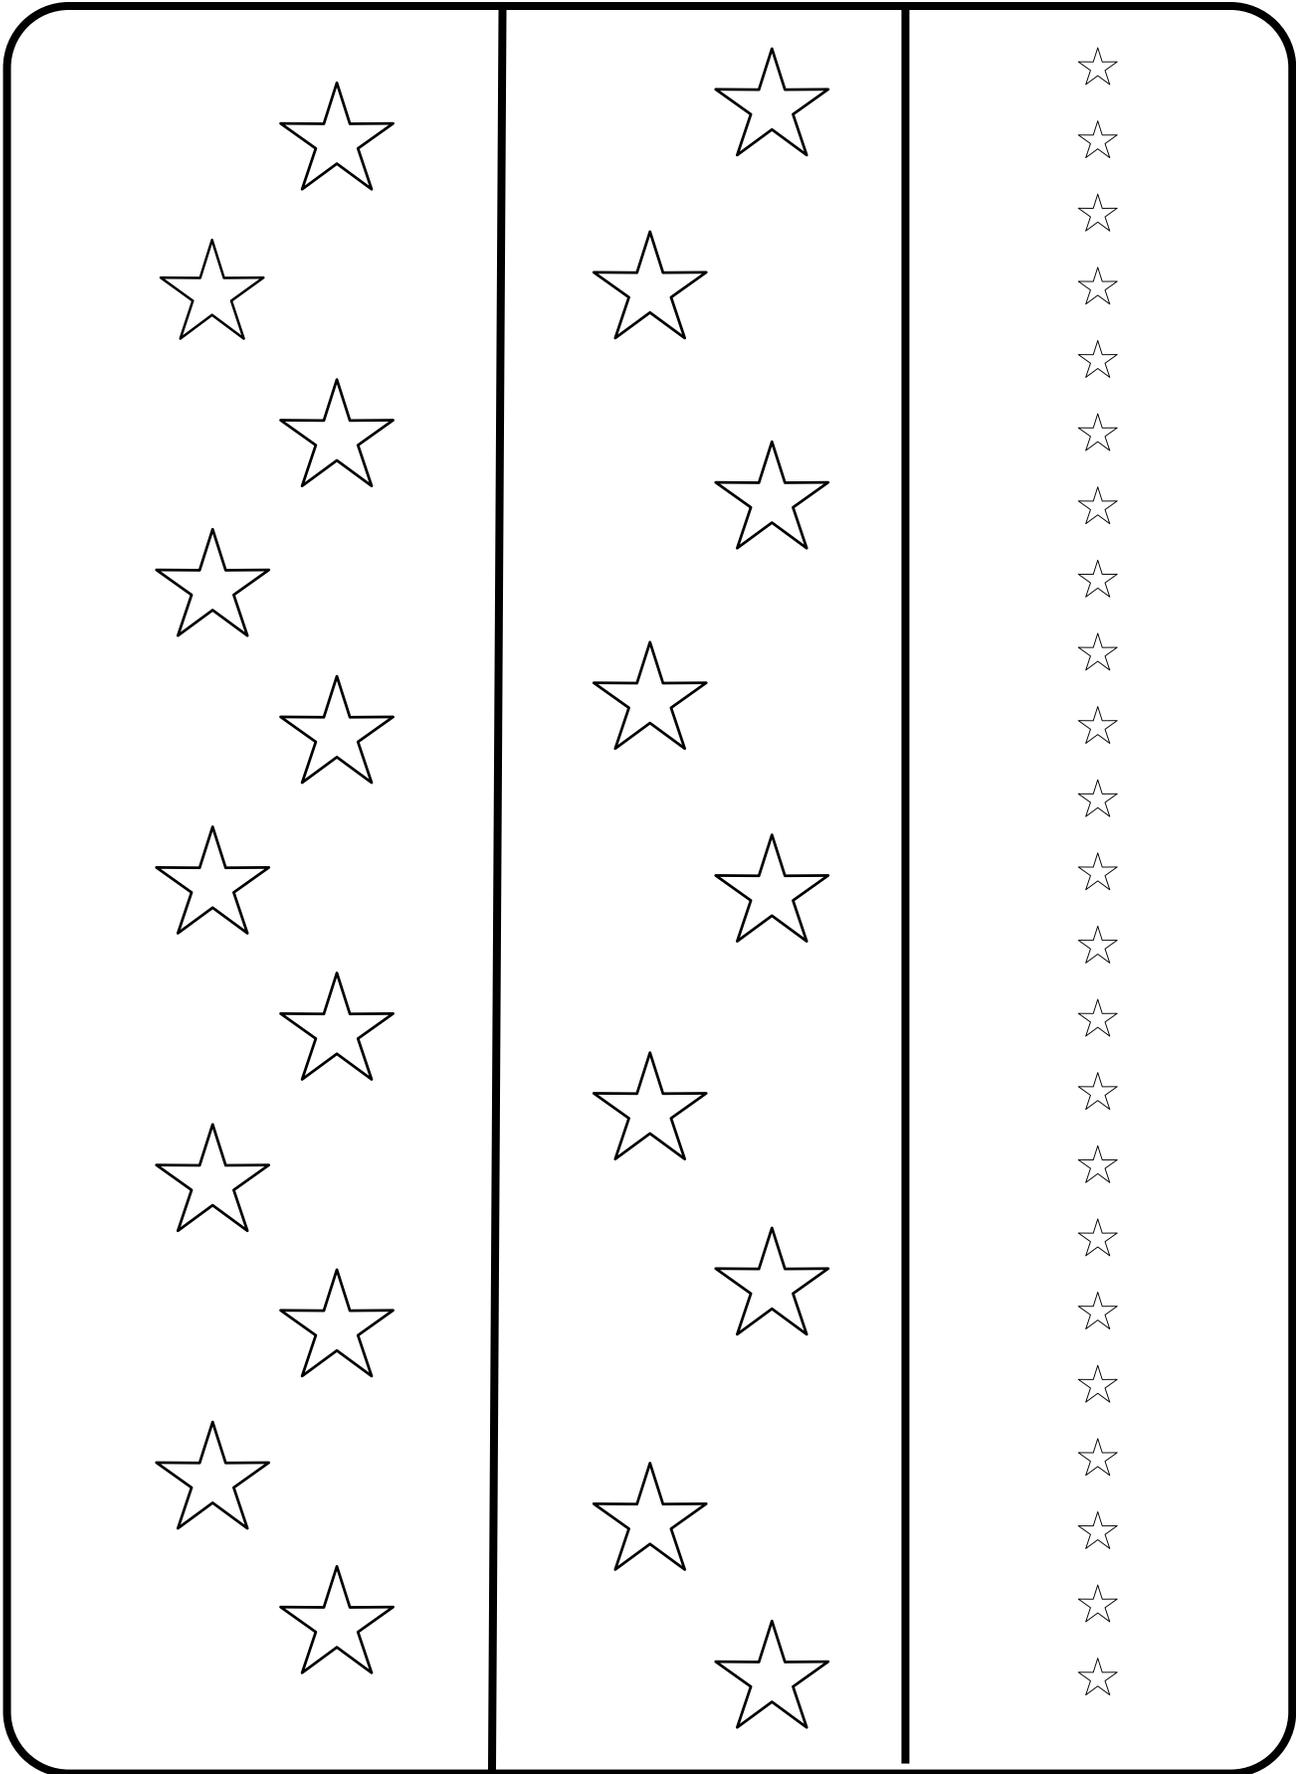

Snake around the stars!

Mini c and curve around the other way.

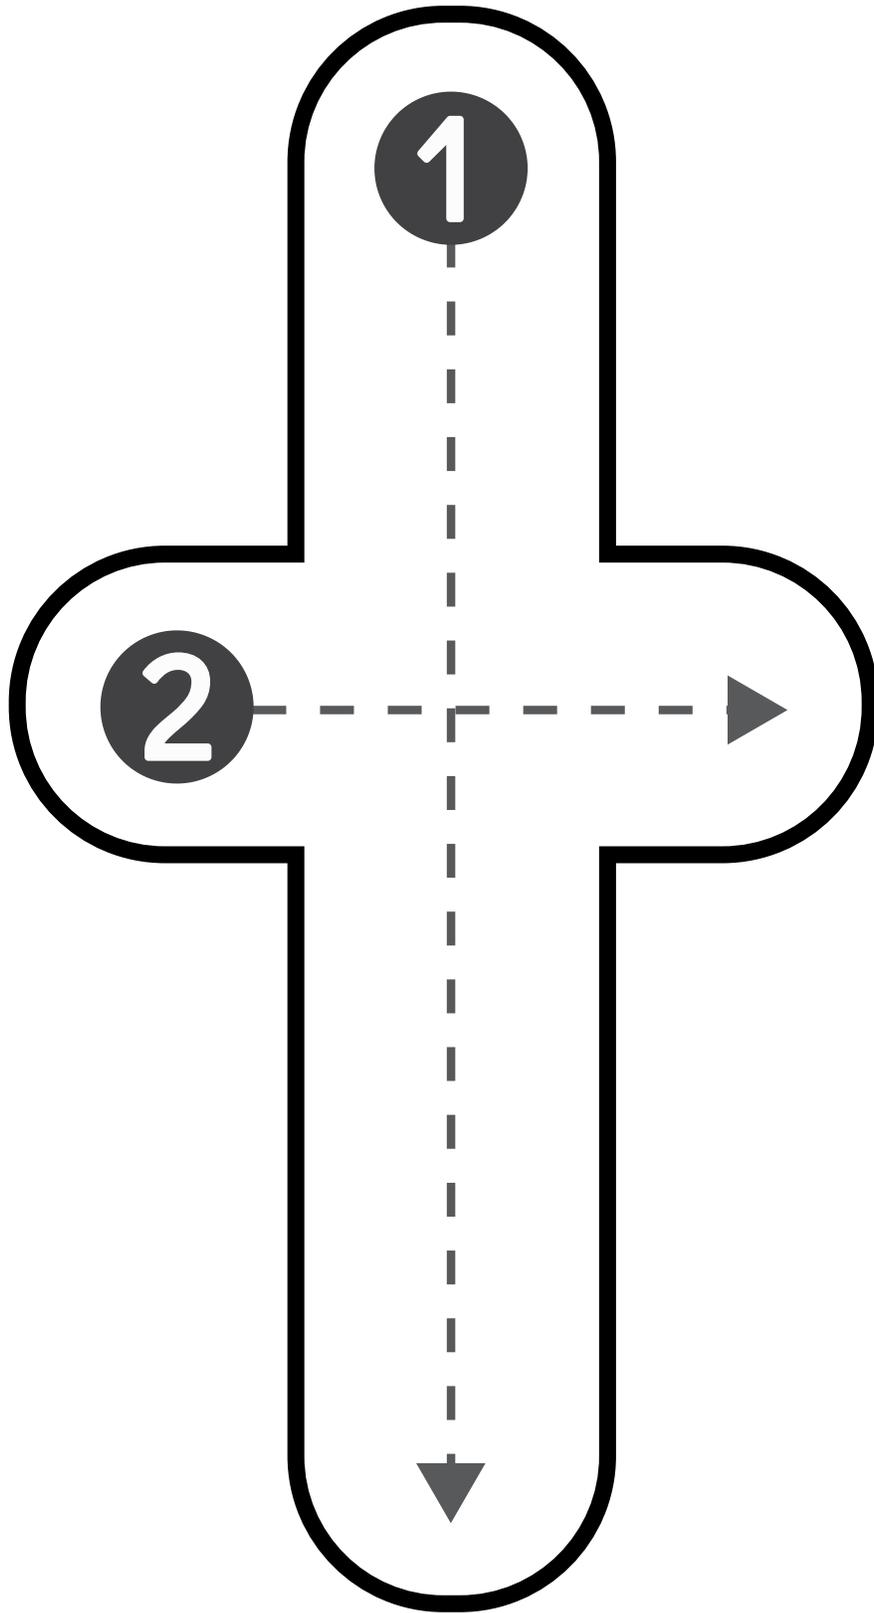

A handwriting practice sheet with four rows of dashed 'S' characters on lined paper. Each row contains five dashed 'S' characters. The first row has the largest characters, the second row has medium-sized characters, and the third row has the smallest characters. The fourth row contains ten small dashes, likely for a separate tracing exercise. The paper has a top line, a middle line, and a bottom line, with a shaded gray area between the top and middle lines.

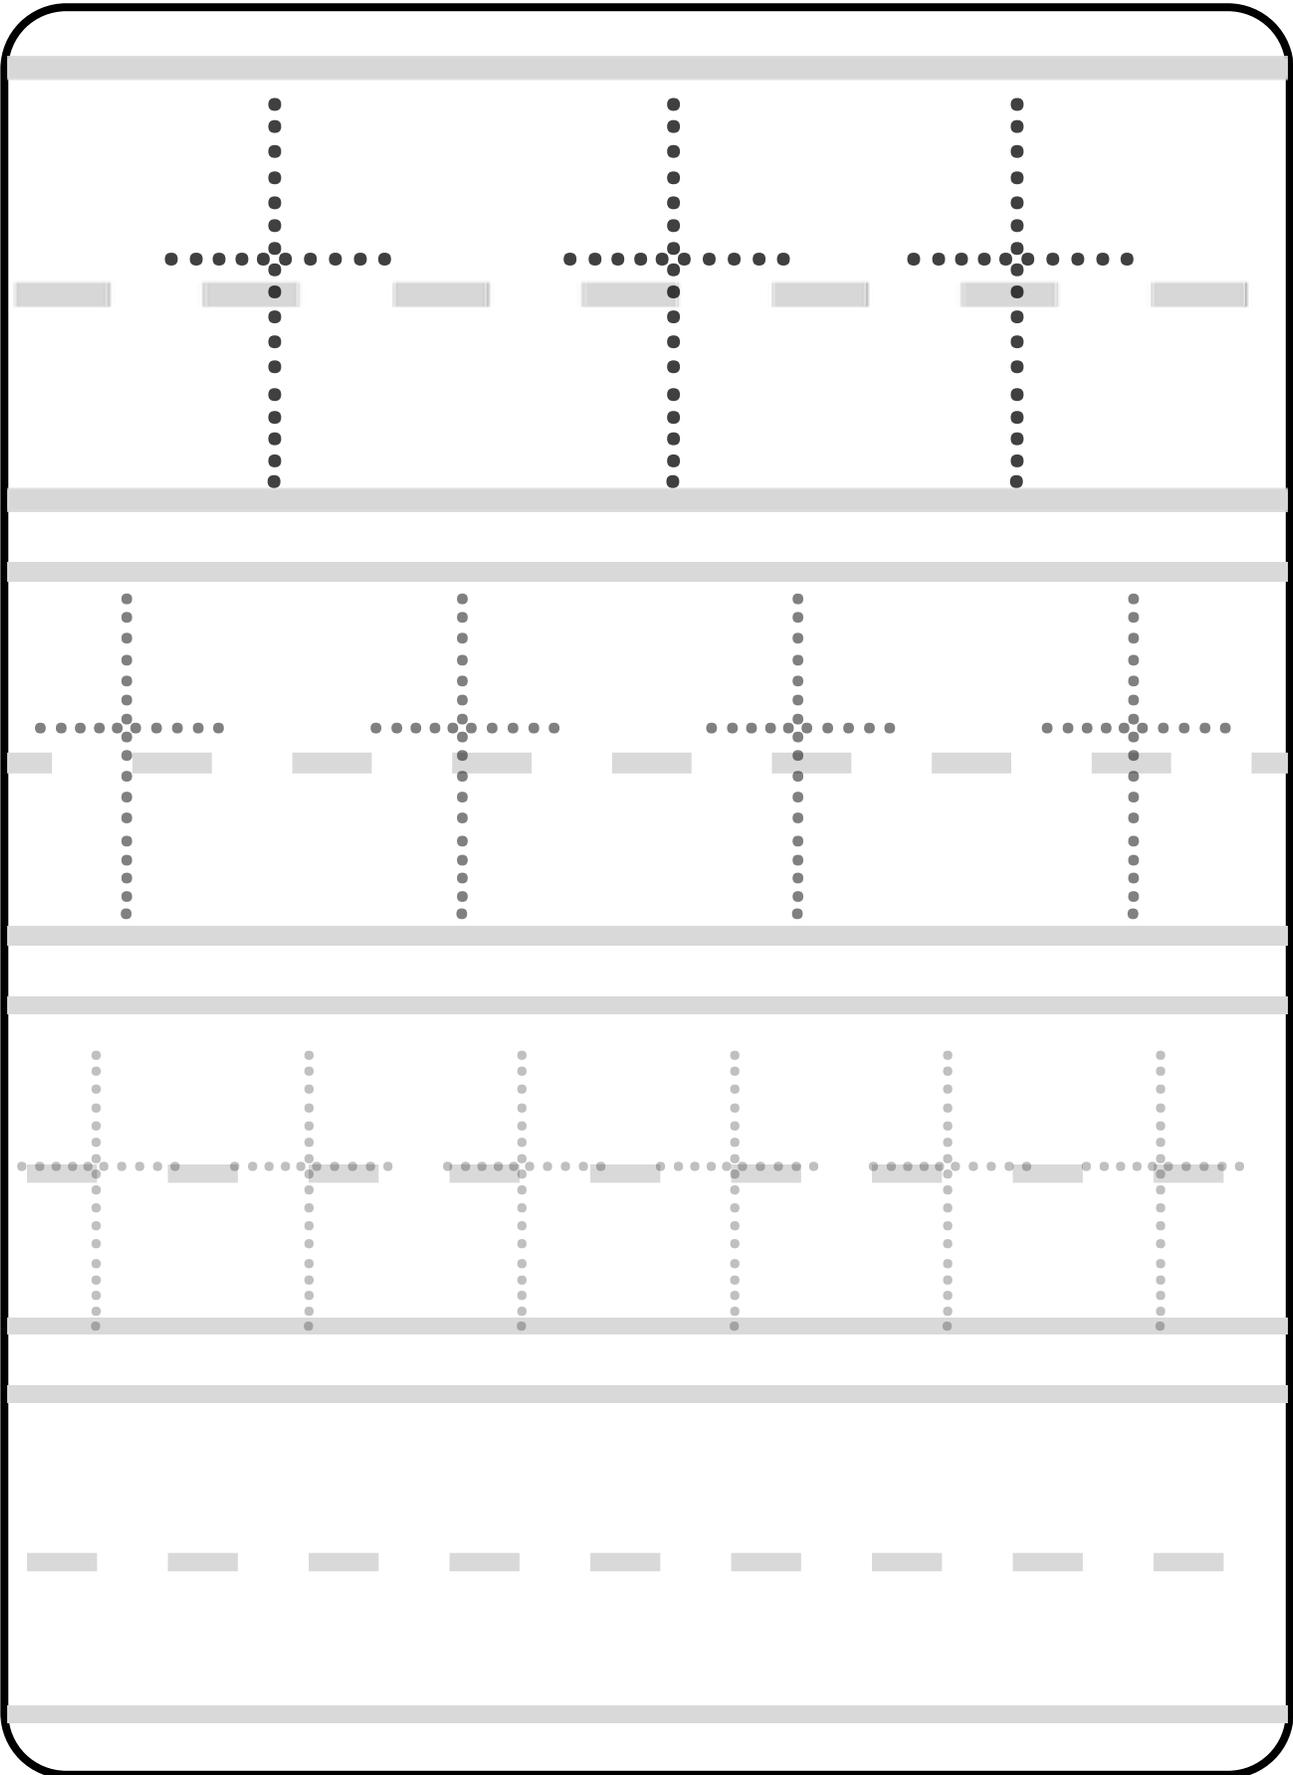

Get the tortoise to the trees!

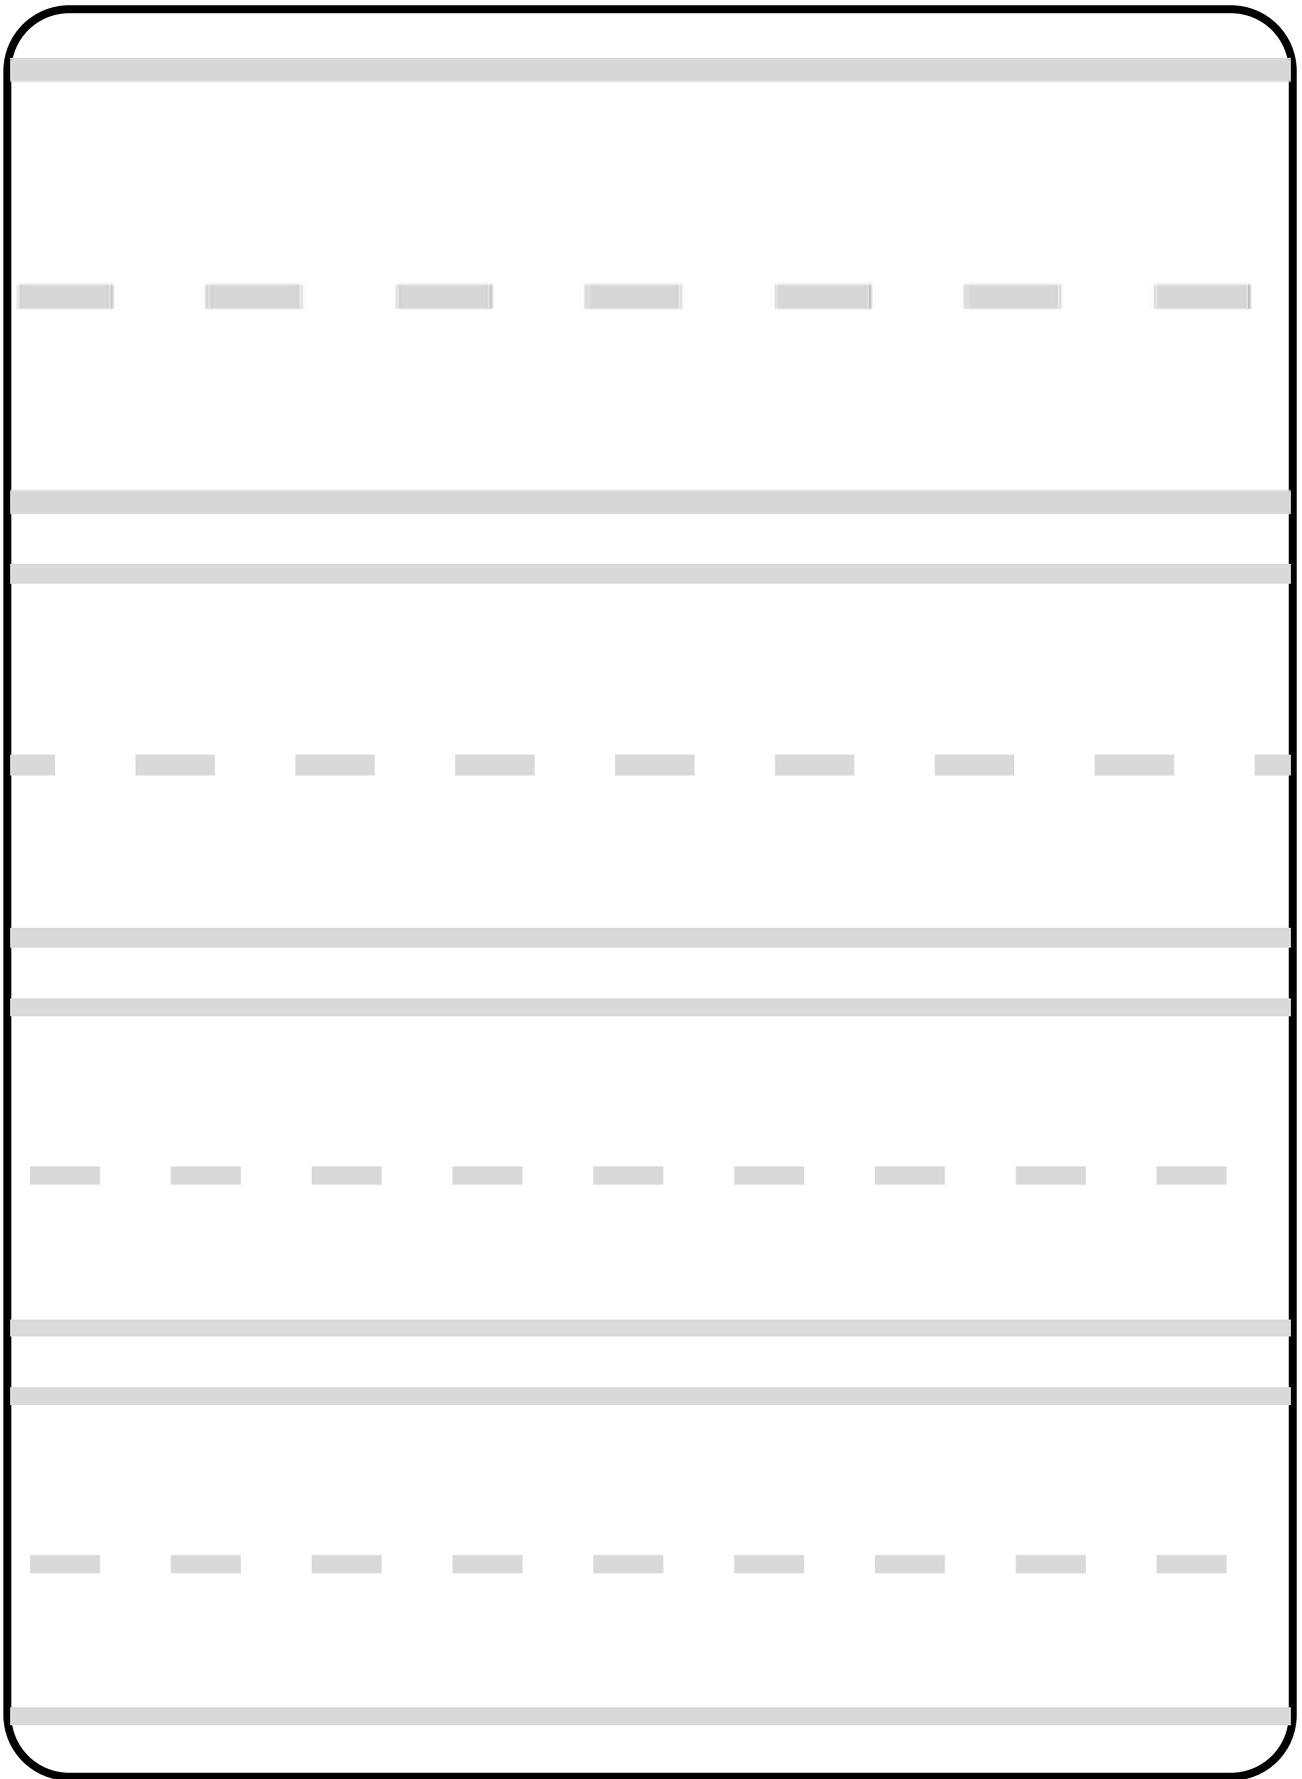

Snake around the stars!

Line down and cross at the middle.

ALPHABET ROLL AND TRACE

Roll a die. Find the number. Trace the next letter above it.
